ABOUT ME

I am a partially self-taught and in-training full stack web developer with a huge ambition to grow and improve my skill set. I pay great attention to detail and, I put clean code writing and responsive design first. No matter how hard a project might be, I always approach it as an opportunity to ask, learn and develop. For me, working in a team and/or solo is an effective way to create new ideas, improve projects and achieve targets; I thrive working on both environments.
